Iowa Central — A Community of Learning Experiences

The 1971 THIRD DIMENSION is an attempt to portray the various aspects of education at the three centers of Iowa Central Community College. The education of a student of Iowa Central cannot be directly attributed to any one source, but we believe that the contributions of each center as well as the oneness of Iowa Central are important considerations when trying to analyze the learning process at ICCC.

Exactly how each student is affected by his education should not be decided by the three editors, and we have not tried to do so. We hope, however, that a unique approach in depicting the different areas of Iowa Central will be a starting point from which each student, at each center, can better analyze the effect the entire college has had on him.

Students Find Themselves . . .

They Meet New Friends, Have New Experiences

The Spotlight Concert Series is a cooperative program sponsored by the community of Webster City and ICCC. The Community Presentations Association brings fine, professional entertainment in music and drama to the college and community.

This year Spotlight '71 presented The Smithsonian Institute (rock group), Jack & Sally Jenkins (vocal duet), Los Indios (guitarists), Simpson College Players (opera scenes), and the University of Iowa Theatre Group (three one-act plays).

FORT DODGE CENTER

Iowa Central Community College
Fort Dodge, Iowa
Volume 3

Distinctly LCC

In a time when the price of a college education is sky-rocketing, and traditional admission requirements refuse to yield to the growing needs of an educated society, Iowa Central Community College flourishes. At ICC, there is no image that a person must sacrifice his identity to. The College is there as a service to the community, and not just to those who meet intellectual or social standards. It's a college that belongs to everyone, and not just a chosen few. Therefore, it has grown to meet the needs of everyone, whether rich or poor, bent toward literature or machines. When distinctions are made between colleges, each has it's own. The people, and the fact that they are there, sets Iowa Central in a class by itself. The Community college is an experiment in democratic education . . . and it's working.

and Direct Two Plays

The ICCC Theatre Arts Guild presented two one-act plays in December. The plays, "Fog" and "Dope", were done in a Theatre-In-the-Round set up. Both were student produced by John Clark of Algona. "Fog" was a drama about three women, played by Barb Martin, Humboldt; Charlene Hutchinson, FD; and Eilleen Ganstead, Humboldt, who are in an airport awaiting the arrival of their loved ones — a mother for her son, a wife for her husband, and a young woman for her fiance. The play "Dope" involved an addict who realizes he needs help, but all he can find from people is apathy and his struggle comes to a dramatic and shocking climax. The cast included Bob Dencker, FD; John Clark, Algona; Tom Dieter, Vail; Mary Buls, Tripoli; Dwight Aljects, Pome-roy; Leo Poppen, Clare; Dean Heyne, Saydel; Joan Stroup, Mallard; Barb Martin, Humboldt; Mary Jeanblanc, Badger.

Student Senate

This year's Student Senate did some things that have never been done in the past. Some of the political aspects of Senate's work were lobbying for Junior college funds in the State Legislature and a year long battle waged by president Randy Peltz in which he sought to end what he termed an unproportional distribution of the activity fund among IC's 3 centers. Among the less glamorous activities of the Senate were the purchasing for college use, a new pa system, the writing of a constitution and a revision of the by-laws. As in the past, Senate put further pressure on persons responsible to build a sidewalk from the dorms to the complexes. The editor of the Collegian summed it up when he said that this year's Senate accomplished more work, influenced more people, and laid more groundwork for the future than any previous Senate.

Agri-Business Training Keeps Students Informed

An orderly and attractive display adds a professional appearance to any business. Mark Lester and Don Reed learn the significance of setting up a properly arranged display for their products.

Classroom experience and on-the-job training, on an alternating basis, is the basic format of the Elevator and Farm Supply Management Program. The purpose of the program is to develop the skills and knowledge necessary to enter, at the mid-management or supervisory level, the elevator and agri-business field. The program, taught by Mr. John Bartlett and Mr. Gary Astor, leads to job opportunities such as: office manager, feed mill manager, fertilizer department manager, salesman, service man, or bookkeeper. The facilities of the program are very adequate for training in the agri-business field. Up-to-date product information is supplied by the industry.

Mr. John Bartlett, (CENTER), instructs the use of grain moisture tester to Bud Owens and Dennis Oleson.

The Fringe Benefits Are Many in Retail

Jerry Landmesser tags stock for holiday sale.

Mike Clipperton assists a customer in the selection of a new pair of shoes.

Mike Brown stacks shoes at Sears.

Marketing

Retail Marketing Management is a specialized two year career program which was designed to prepare students for management and mid-management positions in retailing. The program consisted of classroom instruction and on-the-job training. Retail Marketing Management students trained on the job during three sessions as they pursued the twenty-one month course. These three sessions provided the student with approximately one thousand hours of meaningful, paid, planned and supervised retail experience in selected and approved training stations in Iowa, many of which were located here in Fort Dodge. Upon completion of the program, the students were awarded an Associate Degree.

Exciting Careers In Fashion

Students in the Fashion Merchandising Program prepare for exciting career opportunities in the dynamic world of Fashion. The program, headed by Mrs. Laura Raker and Mrs. Barbara Anderson, is designed to give enthusiastic young people specific knowledge and a background of experience and skill development in all phases of Fashion Merchandising to assume positions of responsibility. Students of this year's program can look forward to careers in fashion, advertising, fashion display, fashion coordinators, fashion consultants, fashion merchandise managers, supervisors, and department heads. The program was 21 months in length and included nine weeks of actual training experience.

Lori Binger, Karis Eickhorn, and Jo Baier discuss their presentation before they go on the air.

Future Marketers Study Processes

The Food Marketing Management Program is designed to prepare qualified people for management and supervisory careers in food distribution. Students are trained in the retail or supermarket phase of the industry, but are qualified for numerous career opportunities in food distribution. This program features classroom instruction correlated with on-the-job training in selected food stores throughout the state of Iowa. Past graduates of the program have found many opportunities available to them in the food industry. Those graduating from the program do receive an Asso. Degree in Applied Science.

Nurses Seek Careers in Patient Care

The Associate Degree Nursing program was designed to prepare qualified graduate nurses for the State Board Licensure Examination. The twenty two month program consisted mostly of women, but is open to men as well. The curriculum consisted of nursing and general education courses held in classrooms on the college campus, and selected clinical experiences primarily in local hospitals. Supportive observational experiences were also provided in a variety of selected social, welfare and health agencies. In these agencies, students learned the care of medical, surgical, geriatric, obstetrical, pediatric and psychiatric patients.

Miss Cora Duis, with the help of Jean Taylor, shows the use of a patient transport device to Kathy Subbert, Pat Stowater, Sue Pleggenkuhle, Mrs. Inez Valley and Linda Page.

Elon Johnson, LaVonne Peterson, and Mrs. Cheryl Severson talk over their experiences of the day.

Sue Pleggenkuhle and Kathy Subbert take the blood pressure of a relaxed Mrs. Nordgren.

Practical Nurses are Essential to the Health Team

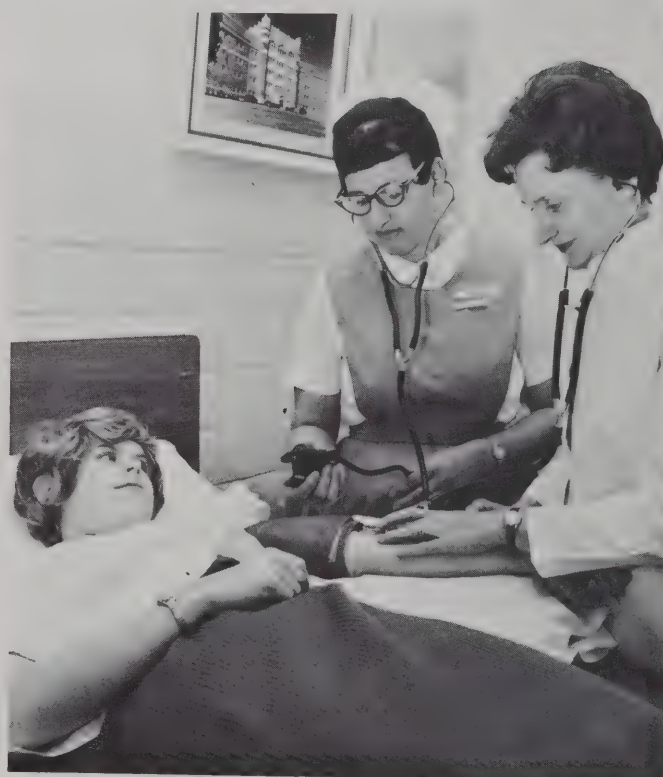

Iona Lynch demonstrates to Edith Knittig and Karen Kraft the correct way to help the patient, Susan Johnson out of a bed.

Practical nursing provides an opportunity for men and women of all ages to acquire skills and knowledge that will enable them to both physical and mental comfort to the sick and injured. Practical nurses are essential and important members of the health team, prepared to carry out nursing duties, under supervision, that are relatively free from scientific complexities. The Practical Nurses Education course is a one year program consisting of three, sixteen week periods. Clinical experience is obtained in Lutheran Hospital, Mercy Hospital, and an observation period in nursing homes. Grads are eligible to write the licensing examination to obtain a license to practice nursing.

Instructor Dorothy Husske explains to Jane Shraye, Debra Lucas, Darlene Eades, Jackie Young, and Eleanora Engman about the brain.

Iona Lynch, inst. shows Jo Ella Fickbohm the correct procedure for taking blood pressure using Barbara Geishecker as a patient.

Girls Acquire Helpful Chairside Manner

A dental assistant prepares patients for dental treatment, assists the dentist at chairside, and prepares dental materials. An assistant is qualified to expose and process X-Ray films, perform laboratory duties, assume secretarial duties, and such patient relations as appointments, financial arrangements and individual dental health instruction. A Certificate of Graduation is awarded to each person who successfully completes the program.

Deb Peterson illustrates to Cathy Manker the correct way that teeth should be brushed.

Students Learn Medical Office Skills

In today's modern, medical world there is a demand for trained members in the health team. The Medical Assistant Program has been established to train these prospective physician's employees. The student is trained to assist the physician in rendering professional services to his patients. The semi-technical skills of the medical assistant are those which relate directly to the patient examination. The program is eleven months in length with an additional eight weeks of work experience.

Clerical Office workers and Receptionists are an important part of one of the nation's largest work forces — that of office occupations. The want ads of any large city newspaper will indicate the need for qualified office workers. The course includes classroom activities, office related experiences in the classroom, and practical on-the-job training. On-the-job training is available at the beginning of the second semester in businesses throughout the 9-county area of Area V. At the conclusion of the 8-week training period, the student comes back to the classroom for intensive, personalized instruction in skill areas needed. A placement office is available for students completing the program.

Monday, January 25, marked the first day of broadcasting for KICB, Iowa Central's radio station. The station was created by the Radio Broadcasting program initiated at ICCC last fall. The station operates at 880 kilohertz. The instructor of the Radio Broadcasting program, Mr. Markland, hopes that someday KICB will be a first rate rock station. The Radio Broadcasting program itself offers a broad general education, along with courses that will instruct the student in the basic phases of broadcast operations. There is also a program set up for those who may not have a technical aptitude.

e of the Future in Industry

Mike Bauer and Bill Musselman record the results from a lab exercise and ponder its outcome.

Graduates of the two-year Industrial Electronics course learned to assist the engineer in the designing, developing, and testing of new devices. They also study how to devise and maintain industrial control systems, and application of electronic equipment. The course, taught by Oram Tabor and Ken Norman, was conducted on a one-hour lecture, two-hour laboratory basis. Each student's lab bench included the items necessary for conducting experiments and putting into practice the theories presented in the lecture. Electronics occupies a very important and continuously expanding position in modern industry, and completion of this course is a step into an exciting future.

Students Polish Mechanical Drawing and Space Skills

As we become more industrialized the need for competent draftsmen becomes greater. Draftsmen render working plans and detail drawings for manufacturing purposes; thus, the draftsmen provides an essential link between engineering and production. With emphasis on problems, our drafting course offers students the maximum amount of actual drawing time plus applied mathematics and other and other essential gernal subjects.

Lorrel Pingel cleans a customer's windshield as one of the service extras given to those who gas up at the station at which he is employed.

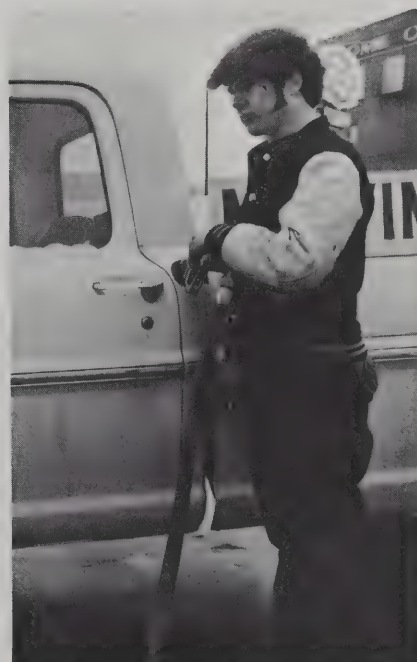

Automotive Service Management is an 11 month program which instructs its students on the maintenance and service of automobiles. It is a cooperative effort with the student dividing his instruction between the school and actual on-the-job training. Students will receive training in the skills of the auto repair and business training related to the automotive industry. A wide range of profitable careers are available.

Duane Beschoner and Walter Schuur put the gauge to an engine head to acquire an accurate measurement.

Instructor Jim Bell explains to Darvine Slining, Joel Ecchur, and Alan Gross the function of engine parts.

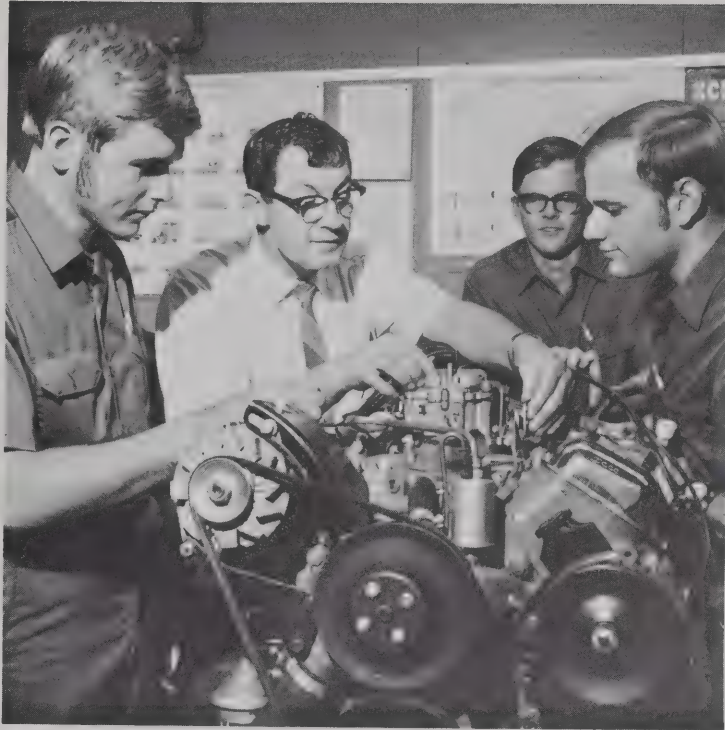

Michael McClelland, Rodney DeVries, and Allan Telschaw examine the electrical system to locate a malfunction.

Practical and Technical Knowledge

Auto Mechanics is a two year program, which provides two semesters of basic auto mechanics. The second year, the student specializes in automatic transmissions, front end alignment, and the electrical system. The student spends twenty per cent of his time in the formal classroom and the balance of his time is spent in actual working conditions in one of Iowa's largest and best equipped, air conditioned automotive schools. All phases of the automobile were taught in the course. The main objective of the course was to give the student practical training as well as the necessary technical knowledge and related instruction. Therefore the program develops the basic skills to become a first class auto mechanic and advancement onto other phases of automotive service.

Instructor Clair Meyer shows Pat Fraher, Joel Eccher, and Randy Jacobson how to properly wire a distributor.

Mark Burres returns the tools to the peg-board after has completed his project.

Mr. Welzien instructs Doug Carlson, Floyd Cutshall, Denny Armstrong, and Steve Chambers in the proper way to operate the paint gun.

Gary Greer, Steve Rosenboom, and Dean Duhl practice new equipment assembly by attaching a tail light.

The Farm Power and Equipment Program was an eleven-month program originated to prepare its students for positions as repair and maintenance mechanics in implement dealerships. Classroom and shop training was based on industrial demands of the modern day mechanic, and is strategically located in an area where trained Farm Power and Equipment Mechanics are in demand. The students were train in new machine setup, used machine repair; gasoline, L. P. gas, diesel engines; farm equipment electricity, hydraulics, farm equipment power trains, clutches, brakes, transmissions, and differential and final drives. Upon completion of the course, graduates found jobs within the area to be challenging as well as rewarding. The training recieved in the program qualifies them as skilled and able technicians in their field.

Trained Welders Play a Key Role in Manufacturing

With continued growth in industry, job opportunities are increasing for the trained welder. The eighteen week program for welders was centered on metallic arc welding and covered all phases of welding ferrous metals and non-ferrous metals. A student who satisfactorily completed the course taught by Mr. James Nelson, was classified as a combination welder and will have found employment opportunities available of his diversified background.

Because of the demand for skilled workers in the machine trade the Voc-Tech department offers a machine shop program designed to train students in all basic skills necessary to qualify for secure positions of employment. Students enrolled in the Machine Shop program this year learned the operation of the metal lathe, the milling machine, the surface grinder, the trueett lathe, the metal sharper and other related equipment. The course, taught by Mr. James Wiggerman, was eleven months in length and consisted of a total of 1320 hours. Most of this time was spent in a well equipped shop, while the rest of the program consisted of related subjects. Some of the related subjects included metals, machine shop math, basic machine electricity, and welding.

Season of Injury and Frustration

The Iowa Central Panthers finished the 1970 football season with a 5-3-1 record overall and a 3-1-1 record in conference play. The Panthers were hindered by injuries all season long but still played their best games of the season in the last few games without key personnel. Ray Hanson, who missed out on the last two games of the season with a broken leg and was slowed by a groin injury earlier in the season, led the Panthers in individual rushing and scoring. Quarterback, Gary Ludwig, led the Panther's passing attack completing 65 of 146 attempts.

Panther's End

Iowa Central had a successful basketball season which ended when they were beaten by Ellsworth JC at Webster City in the regional semi-final game, 90-87. The Panthers finished with a 20-5 record. ICC had beaten Ellsworth two out of three times previously this season, but Ellsworth's Benny Clyde pounded the Panthers for 40 points, which was definitely the deciding factor in the game. Henry Washington and Rick Williams paced the Panthers' attack all season long with averages of 25.1 and 23.4 respectively. Coach Howard commented that he'd "never had a bunch of kids want to win a game as badly as this group. It's been a rewarding year, having a group of kids with this type of character".

In Memory of Mr. Lomen

The sudden death of Mr. Glen Lomen, instructor in the Business Administration Department, was a tragic and sad moment for students and faculty alike.

With a warm and understanding heart, he made his classes meaningful to all; and the pleasant memory of him as our teacher and friend will remain with us always.

Dean Carl E. Thorson is retiring this spring after 41 years of service to this Community College.

It was never unusual for the dean to stroll down the hall to the student lounge to visit and joke with the students. All of us — although we might not have known him personally — will miss his helping hand and his friendly smile.

In Honor of Dean Thorson

March 29, 1971

Student Body
CC, Eagle Grove Campus
Eagle Grove, Iowa 50511

Dear Student Body:

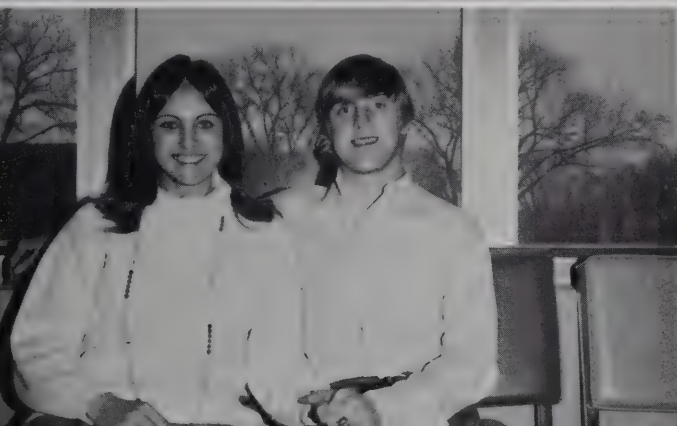

As can be seen by the national trend in all colleges, students now have a greater voice in determining their future within the system. I believe that the only way problems could arise now is if the students themselves become disconcerned and apathetic.

It has been my job this past year to keep you informed of these powers and to help in organizing existing activities. Also with the help of the Student Senate, I have tried to initiate new ideas to better our position and that of the college.

It has been a real challenge. I would like to thank my fellow students for letting me take on this challenge.

Sincerely,

Dan J. Ramsaker

Mr. John Crawford, science instructor and golf coach, consented also to supervise the “Pirate’s Log” staff. Through his guidance, the staff learned techniques in writing copy and setting up offset layouts.

When the intercom blared, “Pirate’s Log Staff, the deadline for your stories is today!” reporters knew it was time to get movin’. Stories came in; and they were checked and typed at the college, after which Deb Seidel and Denny Mikelson usually did the offset layouts.

New Look for "Third Dimension"

The 1971 "Third Dimension" has a new look — four companion booklets in colorful covers combined into one yearbook.

The staff took a trip to the yearbook plant at Topeka, Kan., in October to tour the facilities and design this format and cover with the help of the American Yearbook consultants.

UPPER LEFT: Three editors buried in pictures; decisions, decisions — which one shall be used? UPPER RIGHT: EG, FD, and WC editors learn about yearbook production from American consultants. ## SISEA Sponsors Brother-Sister Program

The members of SISEA sponsored the Brother-Sister program as one of their major activities this year. Other activities this year included a Halloween party, a Christmas caroling party, and working in the concession stand during sports events. Several students attended various conventions such as the Fall and Spring Regional, Leadership Workshop, President's Workshop, and Delegate Council.

Phi Beta Lambda Members Work Toward Miami Trip

This year the PBL theme has been "Community Service." Some of the projects and activities were as follows: "Businessman's Night," Ecology Project, concessions at games, candy sale, sponsorship of Christmas family, installing new chapter at Webster City, and working towards the State Leadership Conference at Northwestern College and National Leadership Conference at Miami Beach. The fifteen members attending the State Conference in April won the following: first in activities report, original project, national project; two second places; five third-places; and two honorable mentions. The winning projects competed at Miami Beach in June.

OE Girls Exposed to All Phases

On a one-year course — that can be shorter or longer — the COE students learn office skills all morning in the classroom.

The other part of the training is on the job in the afternoon. Each of the girls in O.E. has a job in some business or school around Eagle Grove.

On May 6, they entertained their employers at a banquet; J. Milton Moore, State Dept. Consultant, Des Moines, was the keynote speaker.

TOP, RIGHT — Two of the members are participating in a demonstration on the proper way to apply make-up. ## Students Learn About Government Two Ways

The Student Senate headed by Dan Ramaeker made several new additions to ICEG this year. For the lounge, a pool table, new cushion chairs, and new chairs for the tables were purchased. For the outside of the building a flag pole was purchased; however, it has not yet been set up.

College Republican club members were active early in the school year campaigning for local candidates for various political positions. Thus through student government and student political club, students may learn more about how the government functions.

QUEEN BARBARA

Royal

The presentation of the king and queen took place during the halftime of the Pirates-Wolves game, Feb. 20. Denny Brechler and Mary Derscheid, last year's king and queen, crowned the royalty. A new addition was the cheerleaders' salute to their king and queen with flowers and a gift. After the game a dance was held in the Memorial Hall; the band was the Sciran from Cedar Falls. Those in the

Picnic and Cotillion

To start off the year's activities, the faculty sponsored the traditional fall picnic. The picnic, held at Greenwood Park, served as a get-together — "know your fellow students" type — activity. Students and faculty indulged in lots of food, fun, and frolic.

Festivities for the Christmas season began with the Christmas Cotillion Saturday, Dec. 12. After a banquet held in the high school cafeteria, the guests danced to the music of Maranatha in the college lounge.

Students Socialize At Annual Snow Ball and Spring Prom

The 7th Annual Snow Ball was highlighted with the presentation of Mr. and Miss Future Business Executive and Teacher awards to Marcia Kvale, Paulette Russell, Mark Jorgensen, and Wayne Brock.

Spring Prom was held in the Memorial Hall May 14 with music by the Nobelmen. A buffet luncheon and a midnight show were also part of the evening's activities.

Students Learn Fine Arts Through Reader's Theater And Choir

The members of Reader's Theater presented "The White House" in the fall. At Christmas time three members presented Dr. Seuss's "How the Grinch Stole Christmas." Kip Knutzon was narrator. Nita Larsen portrayed Little Cindy Lou Who, and Ron Crovisier acted the part of the Grinch. Mr. Theodore Kappes, speech teacher, directed both presentations.

The choir, under the direction of Mr. Marcus Boe, presented two concerts. At Christmas time they presented a mixture of old and new Christmas carols and songs. May 16, the choir was in concert for spring with new and meaningful songs.

The choir also attended the spring festival at Mason City in March.

Cheerleaders Fire Up With New Cheers And New Uniforms

This year the cheerleaders decided to make new cheerleading uniforms. The new outfits were worn to wrestling meets while the old uniforms were worn to basketball games.

In addition to this new look, the girls created a number of new cheers. Cheers to the pep squad!

Golfers Are 11-2, Place Sixth in State

The Pirate Golf Team compiled an 11-2 dual meet record, placed fifth in a field of 12 teams at the Austin Invitational Golf Tournament, and won sixth place in the Regional Tournament held in Ottumwa.

Kip Knutzon took medalist honors four times with scores of 71, 75, 72, and 74; Scott Sunner, three times with scores of 75, 78, and 77; Paul Heard, once with a 78; and Jim Gage, once with an 80.

18 hole course the Pirates competed with only the Iowa schools. Out of the field of 15 teams, the Pirates earned a dignified sixth place. Eagle Grove's Pirates carded a total of 329 while the winning team shot a 311 over the course. Curt Middleton shot the low for the Pirates with a 79.

It was a busy month-long season with dual meets, double dual meets, and the two tournaments, as the following season's record indicates:

THE WAYWARD

All students in the Central Community School District are urged to do as much as possible to complete a vocational education course, participate in extracurricular activities, and become an active part of the school life in general.

Being a member of the Yellow Ribbon Club has not prevented us from participating in student groups, all sorts of clubs, sports, as well as doing a lot of good things.

The members of participation are: the student and the school, the community, the district, and the state.

Student Senate Spends Progressive Year

They didn't always see eye to eye.

Student Senate comprised representatives, five sophomores, and five freshman, sponsored by Mr. Ken Green. They were an important element in the running of the college activities. The Senators provided movies, backyard barbeques, dances, a pep bus to Creston, were responsible for the installations of gas grills, and free bowling for college students. In general, the Student Senate made I.C.C.C. a more enjoyable place.

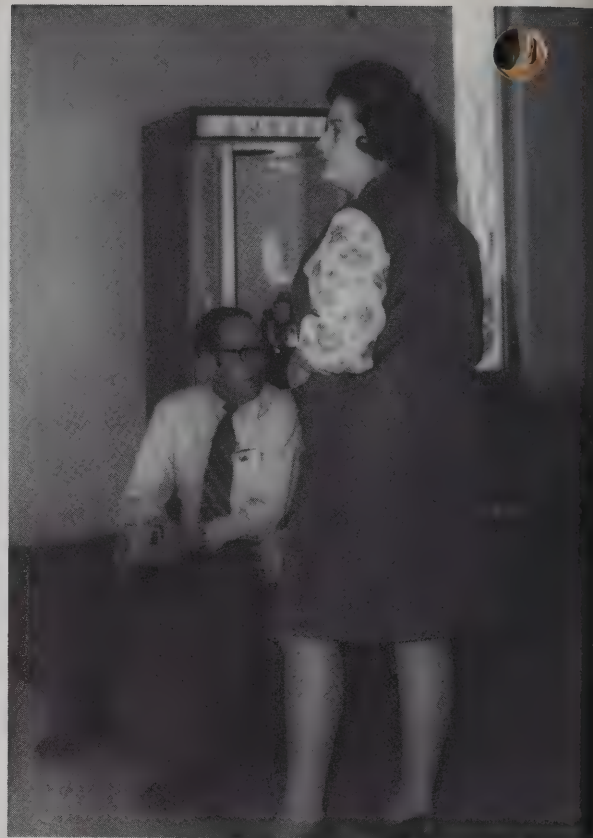

Planning is serious Business.

Staff Developes New Yearbook

This year the yearbook staffs of the three centers decided to make a new type of yearbook to better fit the changes that have taken place at Iowa Central. With this type of yearbook we hope to more closely tie the three centers of ICCC together.

Tom Tom Publishes Last Paper

The Tom Tom Staff published the last eight copies of the paper that dates back to the days of Webster City Junior College 9 years ago. Next year, one paper will be published for all three.

Spirit Makers

The spirit makers at I.C.C.C. were all smiles, jumps and cheers. Through the whole season the cheerleaders were always ready to perform. Basketball games saw the cheerleaders leading the crowd in chants and backing the team. Hoarse voices, tired limbs, and limp hairdos were just a part of the tension at basketball games.

College is a lot harder than I thought
Don't take it so seriously, Murf.
Did you really get an A on that test?

Enjoying Algebra as usual.

Love Potion #9

Student Life

After I get my apron on the rest is easy.

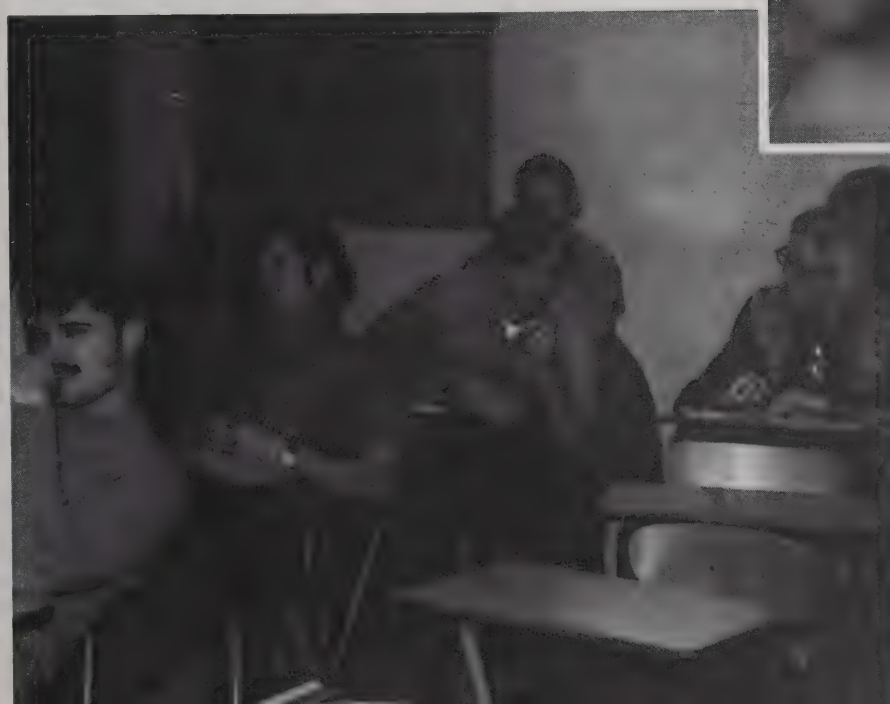

We wantum big basket, Indians

Studying is something I can't Barrick.

Swings On

Math was always one of my easier subjects.

With Finals Comes the End —

Bev and Kathy taking a break between finals.

Last minute cramming for George.
